In March, BPI Alternative drop 5bps taking YTD performance to 0.36%. The main contribution of the month came from cyclical exposed stocks with +45bps due to the strong outperformance of our long in Indra. The company went up with the strong news flow around Europe's necessity to increase its investments in defense. More specifically, the European Commission proposed a plan to invest €800bn in Defense including the suspension of fiscal rules to allow countries to raise defense spending by 1.5% of GDP. Additionally, in Germany it was approved a historic package to boost defense and infrastructures spending. The second-best contribution came from Financials sector with +28bps mainly due to our positioning within domestic banks especially due to our long in Bankinter that has caught up with the sector in March. It was underperforming until February and in March benefiting from a more balanced interest rate outlook it strongly outperformed. The main detractor was the air exposed stocks with -48bps due to the underperformance of our longs in IAG and HBX vs our short in Amadeus. IAG was penalized by the profit warning issued by some American peers that revised downwards its 2025 expectations on the back of softness in domestic segment. At the end of the month, Virgin Atlantic Airways stated that it was seeing some signs of weakness for transatlantic flights which is more relevant to IAG. Those news of potential slowdown in travelling also impacted HBX stock price. The second main detractor was the Pharma sector with -19bps due to our long in Grifols. The company's stock price had a very good February after carrying its capital market's day but it didn't hold in March. Grifols announced a bid to acquire Biotech minorities for €344mn in a timing which was not seen as ideal by the market.

We reverted our long position in Puig to short and to balance that bought shares in a basket of consumer discretionary exposed stocks. A German beauty retailer issued a profit warning due to a marked slowdown particularly in Germany and France, which together with signs of consumption weakness already witnessed in the US led us to change this position. Historic data shows data fragrances, Puig's main business, have a more cyclical profile vs another beauty segments.
