

- ▶ Yesterday's session was dominated by heightened global uncertainty following the US Supreme Court's ruling on Friday, which struck down the emergency tariffs imposed by President Donald Trump. Investors adopted a risk-off stance ahead of a week with no major data releases. Market volatility picked up, reflecting elevated policy uncertainty.
- ▶ Government bond yields fell on both sides of the Atlantic. In the US, equity indices registered losses, weighed also by fears surrounding a potential AI disruption, while in the euro area they showed a similar behaviour, with the exception of the Spanish IBEX-35 and the Portuguese PSI-20, that outperformed their peers.
- ▶ No major movement was registered in currency markets, with only the Japanese yen strengthening slightly. In commodities markets, gold prices rallied to settle around $5200/ounce, while Brent prices traded flat as investors remained cautious regarding the developments of the nuclear deal between Iran and the US.
