

- ▶ Yesterday, global markets ended the session on a cautious footing as mounting tensions in the Middle East and renewed trade uncertainty weighed on investor sentiment. European equities edged lower amid broad risk-off flows, while U.S. markets remained shut in observance of Juneteenth. In fixed income, eurozone sovereign yields rose, particularly at the long end of the curve, while peripheral spreads widened.
- ▶ Following the Fed's decision to keep rates unchanged and signal two cuts later this year, the Bank of England held its Bank Rate steady at 4.25%. Meanwhile, both Norges Bank and the Swiss National Bank delivered 25 bp cuts.
- ▶ In commodities, Brent crude hovered near $79 per barrel, on track for a third straight weekly gain as supply concerns persisted. By the European close, Trump suggested that potential U.S. action in the Middle East could be delayed by up to two weeks, providing some relief to energy markets.
